

Elevating the Patient Voice in Research Project:

Help drive research that addresses the health concerns of your community!

- Do you want to improve the impact that research has on healthcare for Chicago residents and communities in a meaningful way?
- Do you want to improve healthcare for underserved communities in Chicago?

If you answered YES, we welcome you to participate in a community listening session to give input on what Chicago residents think of research for health and wellness.

What does it involve? The event will begin with a short presentation on this project and about patient and community-centered research. Then, you will be able to share, along with other members of your community, your thoughts on the health issues important to you and what information is needed to address those issues.

➔ All participants will be entered for a chance to win one of three $100 Amazon Gift Cards!

➔ Two opportunities to participate! Both events are free and breakfast will be provided

Westside Listening Session

Wednesday, Jan 22, 9:30am-12:00pm
Lawndale Christian Health Center,
3750 Ogden, Chicago, IL
4th Floor Skyline Conference Room

Register here!

Southside Listening Session

Thursday, Feb 13, 9:30am-12:00pm
Chicago State University,
9501 S King Dr, Chicago, IL
Douglas Hall 120 C

Register here!

Save the date for our Citywide Convening on April 16, 2020 at Malcolm X College

Questions? Email info@hmprg.org or call us at (312) 372-4292

About this Project:

CAPriCORN (Chicago Area Patient-Centered Outcomes Research Network) is one of nine clinical research networks (CRNs) in the United States, funded by the Patient-Centered Outcomes Research Institute (PCORI). CAPriCORN is committed to including the patient voice in all aspects of its work by ensuring that results from its clinical research meet the needs of patients and healthcare decision makers.